The economical solution for your volume licensing needs

Microsoft Open License is an incredibly flexible program that lets you pick the right product mix for your organization, today and tomorrow. Open License is the easiest way to reduce the costs associated with acquiring, upgrading, maintaining and managing software by providing simple and flexible volume-based pricing over a two-year period. With as few as 10 PCs, Open License gives you volume purchasing power for ordering and reordering Microsoft software. There are no forecasting requirements, no paperwork and no commitment to buy additional products. Plus, the Open License Upgrade Advantage option gives you the right to get current and stay current with the latest versions of the software you've licensed by providing upgrade rights during your two-year agreement.

► Most cost-effective way for your business to acquire and update Microsoft software
► Receive the same pricing discount during your two-year agreement for reorders of 10 or more of the same product within the same product pool**

Microsoft Open Licensing is categorized into three Levels based on the size of your initial order:

- Level A
20-199 unit points
- Level B
200-999 unit points
- Level C
1,000+ unit points

How does Microsoft Open License work?

To participate in Microsoft Open License, simply call a CDW Volume Software Licensing Specialist at 800-294-4239. CDW's Volume Software Licensing Specialists are thoroughly trained in answering your tough volume licensing questions, so call today. Save your company money—and hassle!

** For the same product pool only—not necessarily for the same product. For example, if you purchase Office 97, qualify for Open License Level A Application Pool and meet the reorder minimum, you may purchase any product in the Application Pool.

Microsoft Open License

Units and Pools

Product pools—The Open License Program offers tiered pricing based on the quantity of your initial order. The bigger the initial order, the greater the discount. Products are grouped into three product pools, including an Application pool, a System pool, and a Server pool.

Unit point value—Licenses for certain products represent a greater customer investment than others, so each product is assigned a corresponding unit point value. In general, individual applications count as 1 unit point, application suites count as 2 points, desktop system products count as 2, server products count as 15, and Client Access Licenses count as 1 point. Pricing is based on the unit point value of the licenses ordered, not the number of user licenses. For example, Microsoft Office 97 application suite is worth 2 unit points. So, for Office 97, 10 user licenses x 2 unit points = 20 points.

Points cannot be combined from different product pools when determining the discount. However, all versions of a product, whether it be a new product, an upgrade, or even a competitive upgrade, count toward the point total of the product pool.

The discount indicated for a specific product pool is then applied to all of the licenses being purchased in that particular pool. You will then receive the same discount level on all future purchases of product licenses within that product pool during the two-year life of the Open License agreement.

If you are purchasing product licenses you must own one set of legally acquired disks, typically from a fully packaged shrink-wrapped version of the product. If you require additional disks or documentation you may purchase them separately.
